

Syracuse's Quest for 6-0

Syracuse is looking to go 6-0 for the first time in the Dino Babers Era. It will be their first top-20 matchup in 24 years this Saturday when #15 NC State comes into town. Otto's Army, a student-run organization that manages the crowd, is exhilarated for this upcoming weekend.

Vice President of the club, John Fiore, discussed the Army's upcoming plans for Syracuse's game of the year.

"The Game Plan is to as loud as possible, get to the game early, lead the cheers, bring good energy and share it in the Dome."

This will be the first time since 2019 that the Dome will be sold out. Forty-eight thousand tickets have been sold thus far, with plenty of time remaining for more purchases.

Fiore mentioned that Otto's Army is looking to be so loud this weekend that they break the all-time record of forced false starts by an opposing team.

"It's going to be very loud. I think we have the chance to break some records. If we are loud and bring our game, I think that this is very doable for this game."

Otto's Army will certainly be up for the test.

Kickoff time will be at 3:30 on ACC Network this Saturday.
